

Train neuroradiology in another Institution!

The European Exchange Program in Neuroradiology

The European Society of Neuroradiology (ESNR) has initiated an exchange program for training European Neuroradiologists with the aim to foster future leaders in Neuroradiology by:

- supporting and developing mobility and communication between fellows and residents training in neuroradiology in Europe
- offering training in topics not available in home institutions
- supporting educational and research cooperation between Institutions of Neuroradiology
- building a network and community as an “European Family of Neuroradiology”

Regulations and Promotions

The exchange program may financially support some or all of the following items:

- 3–6 months stay in a European Department of Neuroradiology: this exchange is the obligatory core of the program.
- partially support for participation in one full Cycle (four courses) of the ECNR – European Course of Neuroradiology
- free registration to the annual Congress of the ESNR for the three participants in the Exchange program with the best results in the ECNR–examinations
- support for traveling expenses
- support from the institution visited, e.g. housing or board
- financial support from home institution, e.g. leave of absence

The program is supported by the European Society of Neuroradiology and sponsored by
